Supports Research and Learning from Alternative Perspectives

Students, faculty and researchers increasingly demand access to insights and information from a variety of perspectives. In response, libraries are reevaluating collections to ensure voices that have not been widely represented are not only included but are easily discoverable and accessible.

ProQuest's Diversity Collection can help. This inclusive, user-friendly resource combines three unique fulltext databases – Ethnic NewsWatch, GenderWatch and Alt-PressWatch – on one award-winning platform to provide users with critical viewpoints and content often left out of mainstream sources.

Ethnic NewsWatch

No other periodical resource so thoroughly covers ethnic studies and brings together content from unique ethnic and minority presses. Spanning millions of articles from almost 500 publications, Ethnic NewsWatch is collection of current and historical full-text newspapers, magazines and journals from specialty publishers. It offers students and researchers access to unique community publications not found in any other database, as well as top scholarly journals on ethnicities and ethnic studies like the Journal of Cultural Diversity, Canadian Ethnic Studies, and Diverse Issues in Higher Education, and newspapers and magazines including the Philadelphia Tribune, El Diario La Prensa, Eastern Eye, and News from Native California. The database also features Ethnic NewsWatch: A History, which provides historical coverage of Native American, African American and Hispanic American periodicals from 1959-1989.

Coverage includes African American/Caribbean/African, Arab/Middle Eastern, Asian/Pacific Islander, European/Eastern European, Hispanic, Jewish, and Indigenous peoples and communities.

GenderWatch

GenderWatch's robust collection of important, current and historic (dating back to 1970) titles provides users comprehensive support for gender, family, sexuality and societal studies from both academic and grassroots perspectives. This well-established and highly reviewed resource enriches LGBTQ+, gender and women's studies with over 300 titles, from an array of academic, radical, community and independent presses. Students and researchers can easily discover articles on such wide-ranging topics like sexuality, religion, societal roles, feminism, masculinity, eating disorders, healthcare and the workplace.

Publications include: Sex Roles and the Gay & Lesbian Review, international titles such as Sister Namibia and Sexualidad, Salud y Sociedad, community newspapers such as the Advocate and the Windy City Times, and many other diverse and interdisciplinary publications.

Alt-PressWatch

Alt-PressWatch gives students and researchers access to distinctive, thought-provoking titles, many which cannot be found in any other database. This incomparable collection spans over 1.5M articles from more than 300 publications. Magazines and journals of the independent presses, including Dissent, Against the Current, The American Conservative, The Braille Forum and Earth First!, provide in-depth coverage of critical issues confronting contemporary society, including environmental activism, disabilities and public policy. Alternative newsweeklies like Eugene Weekly, the Santa Barbara Independent, and The Village Voice offer non-mainstream perspectives on government, policy, and culture; report on local, national and international issues; and cover hot-button topics like hunger, abuse, religion, and pop culture. The Alt-PressWatch database includes these titles and many others, providing an unmatched, multi-disciplinary resource for researchers seeking an alternative to mainstream media perspectives.
